How it Works

Our experts will work with your team to ensure alignment so you can focus on delivering your best and most meaningful work. The process typically looks like this:

Preliminary Assessment

Our initial step involves collecting some information upfront about your Atlassian suite. This helps our team come prepared with a better understanding of what products are being used and a general understanding of current setup.

Workshop

In these collaborative workshops, our teams work together to begin the process of uncovering the details. Through a series of collaborative sessions led by our Atlassian experts, we work to uncover specifics as they relate to the Insight topic, scorecard ratings, a clear picture of current state, and opportunities that are not being fully realized.

Presentation

The culmination of our process is the presentation of our findings and recommendations to your organization. This critical step not only aims to paint the picture of where you are today, but also set the vision for ongoing improvement and optimization. Together, we establish a clear and actionable roadmap.

Evaluation

This step is about turning what we've learned into practical, easy-to-understand reports. These reports aim to present a clear view of your current situation and outline the next steps, offering recommendations specifically tailored to meet your needs and objectives as they relate to the Insight Topic. Our focus is on providing straightforward clarity and guidance.
